The fall session of East View, district No. 46, will be taught by Miss Alice Brown, of Hartford. Miss Alice is one of Ohio county's best teachers, and the patron of this school are to be congratulated upon securing the service of such an able young lady.

Rev. I. H. Twiss, of the Christian Church, delivered two excellent sermons at the court house last Sunday morning and night to fairly good audiences. Rev. Twiss is a close student of the Bible, a young divine of much promise, and his sermons were well received by our people. Arrangements will probably be made whereby he will preach the first instead of the fourth Sunday in the future, so that there will be no conflict with services of any other denomination. If the change is made it will be the enrichment in the Hartford church of the episcopate will remain as at present.

The mines of this county have all resumed work again, but some of them with reduced force. The Hartford mines were giving about 125 tons before the strike. They are now about 150 tons. THIS SHOULD INTEREST YOU.

It is just as necessary for a man to get good reading matter as it is to get good food.

We have just made arrangements which may be of interest to you, dear sir, who are planning down this column of type. The arrangement is this: we will send you the Hartford Herald for one year for the sum of $1.00. The most of our Democratic papers, for six months, for the regular year price of this paper alone. Those receiving and paying one year in advance will be entitled to send their names to the Hartford Herald. The campaign now begun is going to be a very important one. Here is the opportunity to get your own local paper and the leading metropolitan journal of the country at extraordinarily low rates.

If it does, and you think it worth while to take advantage of this great special offer while it lasts, send $1.00 and get your copy of the Hartford Herald for one year. Address Hartford Herald, Hartford, Conn.

Congressman Montgomery.

It is fortunate for the people of Kentucky that they have in Congress a gentleman of the character and standing of Mr. A. B. Montgomery. Quiet in manner, moderate in disposition, disinterested in his aims, and devoted to the service of his constituents, Mr. Montgomery's long service in Congress has especially led him to deal with questions directly affecting the interests of the entire State.

The ascendancy in national affairs given to the Democratic party was largely due to the practice which prevailed of confining the public discussion of national questions to their capacity faithfully to serve their people.

Mr. Montgomery never seeks to fill the public eye with displays of his arts by which men of less ability strive to attract public attention. He devotes himself entirely to the interests of his people and of his party. He yields points not on essential matters but on matters of momentary importance. As a result he has secured in Washington a position and an influence which few men gain at all, and so men as command respect after years of continued application to public affairs.

Mr. Montgomery has been called to Washington by Speaker Crisp to serve on the Conference Committee, to whom will be committed the tariff bill. It is a position requiring the utmost familiarity with the condition of the treasury, the course of legislation affecting the revenue, a knowledge of various interests, which must contribute to the support of the Government, and in addition call for a personal acquaintance with the members of both Houses who finally legislate.

The selection of Mr. Montgomery by Speaker Crisp shows that he has gained a position in Washington which is well accorded to men of merit, for in Washington, as elsewhere, success of this character is a tribute to genuine ability which experience has developed to high points of usefulness.

The Evening Post in no way discards Mr. Montgomery's opponent, Mr. Murray, when it says it would be a mistake for the State to send the latter to represent the State in the House of Representatives. Mr. Montgomery is a man of high character and high ability, and his selection to represent the State in the House of Representatives is a tribute to his high character and high ability.

Costly Teachers.

At the court last Monday morning there assembled in their annual meeting a fine body of teachers as yet unorganized as Ohio County Institute. On July 25th were enrolled the first day of the list was increased yesterday by the addition of several names.

Superintendent Rogers is the chair and Mr. Charles Green is Secretary with John B. Taylor for his assistant. Prof. John C. Willis, of Shelbyville, is acting as instructor, and a most thorough hold he has obtained upon the interest of the teachers and all those in attendance at the meetings of the body. It is a thorough school man, fully familiar with every detail of the work he has in hand and his work here will result in much good to the schools of the county. There are some of the old families here, and the list of names is a list of the best of the county. In Fatal Debate.

At the court house here Monday afternoon occurred the first debate between Hon. A. B. Montgomery and Mr. Charles Green in the House of Representatives. The debate was a most interesting one, and the audience was large. The debate was a most interesting one, and the audience was large.

George Oakes, the colored grocer who was sent to Owensboro just after the May term of our Circuit Court for misfeasance, served out of the jail at the place last Thursday night. After his escape he came back to Taylor Mine in this county, and after staying there a few hours went to Mifflinburg, where he was arrested by Sheriff Sheriff. Sheriff Sheriff heard of his whereabouts and took the trail. On Saturday night he followed Oakes to Taylor Mine in Kentucky, and about midnight found him lying on the depot platform with his hat over his face. He was immediately arrested and brought back to Hartford and lodged in jail. Sheriff Sheriff took Oakes back to Owensboro yesterday.

THE third year of this educational institution will open the 28th day of August, 1894, with new additional rooms and with additions to the Faculty, which will place it abreast of any educational institution in this Green River country. Its success has already been beyond the most sanguine expectations of its projectors, and with its leading educational center, Beaver Dam is pleasantly located on the C. & O. S. W. railroad, with superior mail and bus facilities from every point. It is strictly non-sectarian, with splendid Church and Sunday School advantages. Board can be obtained at the very lowest rates. For further information address Prof. E. R. Ray, President; Miss Dora E. Gibson, Vice President, or the Board of Trustees. Send for Catalogue.

R. P. Hocker, Chairman of Board of Trustees.
